Coffee Pixes Game or UI Design?

Screenshot of the game title screen.

Coffee Pixes is a game created in Kivy and Kivy The game was submitted as a demo on IndieGer on June 26, 2016 as a way of gaining more validation in the Mobile Apps community, I created Coffee Pixes to show the potential of mobile games and how we can re-write these apps to suit the mobile development platforms.

I sketched out an illustration of the characters head, wig, and jacket.

- The head was given a silly looking bowl haircut.
- The jacket was covered with buttons and velcro
- The crown was based on a Cabbage Patch Doll.

I drew the Coffee Pixes character and placed them into a Kivy Box to give a feel of a game.

I created the Logo I created the Logo on a standard black notepad and cut a

In 1971, the body of a wealthy businessman was found in his basement riddled with bullets. The coroner who examined the body concluded it was suicide, and that all people knew him had found that he killed himself, and buried his body in his mansion's basement, but they all were lying to him. For years they've not said a word about it, and the coroner's report was classified. Years have passed, and the town has become known for its mutants and paranormal activity. In one of the old mines near Howlville, the lab of Dr. Joseph was found, years ago, along with his theories about the human mind. People began to flock to the building, wanting to see if it was true. Soon it became clear that the building wasn't safe, but it had already happened. The experiments didn't stop. The experiment gone wrong was classified and nobody would talk about it. The government shutdown all access to the building, and it was closed. Nobody knew what happened to Joseph, and he was listed as a missing person. 15 years later, in 1996, Rachel is finally about to find out the truth behind her father's disappearance. She will have to solve the secrets of the mine, and figure out what is really going on. Will she solve the puzzle and break the conspiracy? Storyline: Fifteen years ago, a terrible catastrophe occurred at a secret lab near Howlville. It caused a strong earthquake and became known as "The Misplaced Experiment". The people living in the town have never told anyone the truth about what really happened at the lab. Now, everyone knows about it and everybody knows the building is haunted. Rachel is on the verge of solving the mystery, but somebody is doing everything possible to keep her from succeeding. Rachel is institutionalized in a secret mental hospital. Gameplay: The game is set in an aged version of the 16-bit era. Most of the game takes place in Howlville, an old video game styled town. In the game you will be going through corridors and rooms, solving puzzles and finding hidden objects. Each room is unique, with hidden games and death traps, which will test your reflexes and your judgement. You will use all your brain's capabilities to solve every riddle, every danger, and every obstacle you will face. The game features a large variety of puzzles and mini-games. Many of them seem somewhat familiar to well-known ones, but you need to use your brain to figure c9d1549cdd

What's new:

May 4 - July 1, 2019 In October, 2008 an extraordinary hurricane struck the island of Dominica. Caught off guard by a monster category 5 storm, Puerto Rican mother-of-one, Tainy, is forced on to the pitch. Energized by love and determined to make something positive of her life, Tainy with courage beyond words, plays at the highest level, whether it is her fitness, her compassion, her love, her family, her friends or her obsession for football. What will you do if suddenly thrown into the centre of the ‘steel jungle’ – an island where unheard of long distance running conditions are met on routine by locals who use the steely jungle for their daily existence? The answer to this question will change the course of our life. Together with my character, Aubrey, Tainy must survive the obstacles there will be along the way in order for her to take control of her life. The story is set in both the past and present. Silent Swan October, 2008 ‘How long have you been here?’ A fair question indeed, I remember thinking. He had just arrived at my front door, around midnight, alone in an aeroplane. ‘About two hours’ I said. Indeed two hours until he kicked me out of my new home. ‘I know you be lonely here and I know I am just too late’ he said showing remorse. ‘Ok’ I said as I stood between him and my door. I live here. Why are you telling me?’ ‘Just trying to be nice’ he said. It was evident that he came to tell me something in particular, and not just to try and be nice. Was I that boring? I didn’t think so. I chose to stay in this quiet neighborhood. Quietliness is what I needed to enjoy for a while. People talk about not needing to make noise and I agree. I hope that people respect my silence. ‘Tainy’ he said. He was now standing right in front of me, his hands on the doorknob. ‘What’s your name?’ ‘Tainy’ I said ‘I have been here only two hours’. ‘You should just call me Moo’ He said. ‘Moo’ My hand on the doorknob was raising an eyebrow
